BISHOP BEECHER WANTS TO GO TO THE FRONT

"The bishop of London is with the troops across the water, and I am just that kind of a bishop."

That is the patriotic answer Rt. Rev. Geo. A. Beecher, of Hastings, bishop of this missionary jurisdiction gave Genl. Adjutant Hall, when the latter called him up and told him that though he was chaplain of the Fifth Nebraska regiment, he would be excused from the regiment on account of his high position in the church.

The answer is characteristic of the man—a wonderfully patriotic man whose love of country and its flag is paramount. When Co. E left North Platte for Chicomauca Park in 1898 with the expectation of seeing service in Cuba or the Philippines, it was Bishop Beecher who cheered most loudly for the boys; and just before the train pulled out he entered the car, repeated with them the Lord's prayer and pronounced a final benediction. It was an act of love, of patriotism, of brotherly feeling that those sixty-five members of Co. E never forgot and never will. So long as such men as Bishop Geo. A. Beecher live, love of country will be kept alive and the desire to honor the stars and stripes will not depart.

NORTH PLATTE VOLUNTEERS LEAVE FOR LINCOLN.

Thirty-one young men, with Captain P. R. Halligan in command, entrained Saturday noon for the Nebraska National Guard mobilization held at Lincoln. To bid them good bye and wish them well an immense throng of citizens assembled at the depot and many moist eyes were in evidence. As the recruits marched to the depot from the recruiting station behind four color bearers, loud cheers were given along the streets and at the depot they were similarly received with huzzas. The band played national airs, cheer after cheer rent the air, and as the boys stepped into the coach which had been switched on for their use, there was a general lifting of hats and cheering.

But while the crowd cheered, beneath this evidence of encouragement to the boys there was among all a feeling of sadness, for with each of us the terriblest of war has been kept fresh by the European struggle, and we know that war with Mexico means the sacrifice of hundreds and perhaps thousands of good American citizens.

Those who volunteered to defend the flag of their country and left on train were:

P. R. Halligan; Arthur W. Bullard; S. S. Spillman, William Crook, L. A. Ringemann, J. W. Rowland, Marvin Jagger, S. P. McFarland, Calvin R. Duckworth, Butler Miltenberger, J. A. Becker, Percy C. Schott, Guy Downing, A. E. Dailley, P. G. Gantt, Roy Ames, Maurice Phillips, G. L. Lambert, Leo Alloway, E. W. Chester, C. J. Martini, A. C. Black, F. H. Coker, Oscar Brown, Edwin Techner, Henry Westendorf, John E. Sawyer, R. O. Patrick, Raymond Morrison, Richard Faulkner, Carl Lance, Bryan Schott.

Somewhat "Mussed Up."

The Tribune has been housecleaning for several days past and things have been rather badly mussed up. W. E. Monroe and his men have painted the ceiling, walls and woodwork, scrubbed the floor, dusted out the cases and the by-places and then so far as neatness is concerned we will look quite respectable, thank you.

FOR SALE

"Emmy of Stork's Nest."

Dealing with a theme that is as big and refreshing as its own mountain setting, "Emmy of Stork's Nest," a five act photoplay based upon the novel of the same name of J. Breckenridge Ellis, is the next offering of the Columbia Pictures Corporation released on the Metro program, and will be seen at the Keith theatre, Tuesday June 27th.

The stellar honors in this promotion are delineated by Mary Miles Minter, a recent comer in filmland, who has won instantaneous success. To see Miss Minter on the screen is a delight, both because of her ardent youth—she is not yet sixteen—and because she is a finished artist, having been on the stage since she was seven years old. Her first appearance was with Nat Goodwin in "Cameo Kirby." Later she played the title role in "The Littlest Rebel," a performance that elevated her to stardom and won her thousands of admirers during four years the play ran in New York and on tour. In "Emmy of Stork's Nest" Miss Minter has the role of a care-free mountain girl, and her vivacity and bewitching beauty in the characterization of the part will be a decided treat for lovers of motion pictures.

Mrs. Cox Passes Away.

Mrs. Jemina Cox died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Robert Dean Friday afternoon. She had been in poor health for six years and last week suffered the third paralytic stroke, death following a few days later.

Mrs. Cox was born in England in 1837 and married there in 1864 to John Cox who died eight years ago. To this union were born eleven children three of whom are residing in this city and eight died in their infancy. Those residing here are Messrs. R. V. Cox and J. D. Cox and Mrs. Robert Deane. The deceased came to this city from Pennsylvania in the spring of 1881 and was a highly respected and charitable woman who had many friends among the local people. The funeral services were held at the M. E. church on Sunday afternoon.

Those Who Come and Go.

Mrs. Dalmar has returned to Arapahoe after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Den. Roy Ames returned Friday from a visit in Omaha. The Reason for a Telephone Company's Depreciation Reserve

Patch up a suit of clothes how you will, it will gradually wear out and have to be replaced by a new one.

Just so it is with the telephone property. Some parts of it wear out quicker than others, but repair it again and again as we do, finally it wears out.

In addition to the wearing out of the property a good many of the parts are year by year becoming obsolete and out-of-date and are replaced by something better.

Each year we set aside out of the money we take in from the sale of telephone service an amount which we estimate represents the wearing out of our telephone property during that period.

This money is invested back in the plant, and thus temporarily employed as additional capital on which no dividends or interest charges are paid.

Through our policy of setting aside a depreciation reserve to provide for the rebuilding or replacement of the property, present telephone users pay for the wearing out of the plant instead of passing the debt on to the next generation.

Lack of recognition of this principle has caused many failures in private industries and is a frequent mistake in public institutions.

Our policy of setting aside a depreciation reserve is now generally accepted as the fairest way to provide for the rebuilding or replacement of the equipment when it wears out.
